MAJORS

English, BA

English: Creative Writing, BA

English: Pre-Law, BA

English: Professional Writing, BA

English: Screen Studies, BA

As an English major, you can count on your English professors to take you to the leading edge of the discipline. The English faculty regularly garner major teaching awards and take pride in their quality of teaching.

- Enjoy small class sizes in lecture and discussion courses.
- Learn from and become well acquainted with your fellow English majors through freewheeling writers' workshops, group projects and class discussions.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

Creative Writing - students learn the craft of poetry, fiction, and creative nonfiction in a supportive community with highly accomplished faculty.

Professional Writing - teaches writing and language as a means of generating and exchanging ideas and information in various professional settings.

Screen Studies - emphasizes coursework across disciplines, and encourages research approaches to film and media, whether avant-garde or genre, American or international, classical or contemporary.

Literature - students learn to think critically and write persuasively through the study of diverse literature.

Pre-Law - prepares students for law school and careers in the legal field by teaching rhetoric, critical thinking and communication skills.
